

Six Things to Know Before Ordering a Lampshade!

- 1 LIGHT SOURCE What type of light do you need? Take a moment to consider the following four types of light source and, which suits your needs best:
TASK -task lighting spotlights a specific area as a pendant fixture would “spotlight” counter work surfaces in your kitchen
AMBIENT -ambient lighting casts a welcoming, warm glow, filling a room with personality and texture, as a chandelier does for an elegant dining room
READING -reading lighting illuminates a cozy nook with a bright glow
FLOOD -flood lighting fully fills a room with brilliance illuminating all parts of a room at once. Architects and designers often use this kind of light to highlight architectural details
- 2 SIZE & SHAPE MATTERS Using correct proportion and styling of a lampshade to the lamp it sits on, can make or break a room. Finding a good fit and a complimentary shape for a specific room is like finding the perfect piece of jewelry that compliments your body type or fashion style. If you’re replacing a lampshade, the three most important measurements are: Top diameter Inch, Bottom Diameter Inch, Side Slant Inch.
- 3 LIGHT HAS COLOR Light has color. Wander the lightbulb aisle of a hardware store and you are sure to find ample selections. Most lightbulb brands display the different colors their lightbulbs emit and make it easy to see the difference. Cool colors tend to be brighter, and warm colors tend to be softer. Same goes for your lampshade fabric choice! Take your time choosing the right fabric that will enhance the room it will sit in.
